

Shinji

To live out a life without regrets, strive to be the person (human beings) with the kokoro to live and give back.

The greed created by the jittai suppresses the strengths of the unmei and human beings suffer, unable to possess the zest to live.

To the Shinja

Learn the teachings with family members and strive to mutually raise your jittai.

Your kokoro will be freed from greed and an elevated character will be attained that lives in the spiritual world.

The unmei given by Kami will guide and protect the kokoro (life) of the person (human beings) who lives with the kokoro to give back.

The more the movement of the kokoro becomes one with its unmei, work takes on meaning and purpose, and filled with the zest to live, results are produced.

Thus the kokoro and the body become increasingly healthy; and encounters with others (people) deepen and return as support.

Do not look for work based on outward appearance, organization, reputation, or what is popular.

When the strengths of your unmei combine with an environment that makes the best of them, the kokoro to give back blossoms and becomes work.

The more human beings live in a family that abides by the teachings, they find the right job where the strengths of their unmei take on meaning and purpose.
