

Shinji

If you live a life that is one with your unmei, all human beings (people) will have hope in their lives.

But they rely on knowledge without principles, lower their jittai on their own, and are unable to see hope.

To the Shinja

Perceive the principles in the teachings and try to make them the guidelines in your life.

Your emotions will gradually anchor, and you will no longer be consumed by the words of people and the changes in society.

This is the human being (the person) who lives their life sustained by the principles.

When human beings live by the principles, their jittai is raised and a life guided by their unmei begins.

Their efforts bear fruit and they are increasingly supported by many people.

Kibō no Michi gives human beings (the person) the hope to live their life (their kokoro) as a human being and draws out their life objectives.

Hence the strengths of the unmei are drawn out in all human beings (people) who live by the teachings.

They become an existence (a person) who interacts correctly, enhances, and supports the unmei (the strengths) of all people and all things.

Understand that when you live a life that is one with your unmei, you will increasingly see the hope that sustains life.

If you live by the teachings, the human kokoro gradually sees the hope that dreams come true.
