

Shinji

If human beings cherish their encounters with all people and all things and are always grateful as they live out their days, all will attain meaning and purpose in their life and live a life of hopes and dreams.

This is a truth—the unmei of all people and all things which are in Kami's hands, comes together, complements, and mutually sustains them.

However, unable to see their jittai, their life is consumed by greed, and they are unable to find life's meaning and purpose.

To the Shinja

It begins by correcting your jittai as you learn the principles of life from the Shinji, the principles.

Your emotions gradually anchor and the kokoro to make the best of your encounters with people blossoms.

The idea to live and give back is drawn out at this time; and a life guided by your unmei begins.

Conversations with your family members grow and deepen, and their kokoro is full of life.

Conversations at the workplace move toward achieving goals, opinions come together, mutual support and results are achieved.

Learning at school becomes enjoyable and the effort that is made leads to dreams that come true.

Human beings are an existence that elevate their life by coming together and making the best of the many people they meet.

When the kokoro to give back is drawn out and becomes a part of you, all human beings gain understanding of the principle (the kokoro) about work.
